

Characteristics of a Reading Interventionist

Intended for use with the Secondary Literacy Intervention Readiness training content as teams consider the characteristics of a reading interventionist.

Directions

Review this alphabetized list of characteristics of a reading interventionist and rank your top five most important attributes when considering an ideal reading interventionist ('1' being most important).

Table 1. Characteristics of a Reading Interventionist

Checkmark	Alphabetized List of Characteristics of a Reading Interventionist
	Belief in the importance of learning to read
	Good behavior management skills
	High expectations for students and a sense of urgency
	Knowledge of the science of reading
	Know how to promote generalization of strategies and skills to GE
	Personal growth mindset and willingness to learn
	Previous training in the intervention program
	Positive relationship with students
	Successful teaching experience with Direct/Explicit Instruction
	Understanding the progression and interaction of reading skills

Michigan's MTSS Technical Assistance Center is funded by the Michigan Department of Education and the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs.